

PLACEMENT TRAINING - REGIONAL PLACEMENTS

Regional placements at SIMATS refer to job opportunities that are available within the geographical region where the university is located or nearby areas. The university's focus is to equip students with the necessary skills and training to succeed in the regional job market. This includes understanding the local industries and job opportunities, developing relevant skills and expertise, and building professional networks with regional employers. Interview chambers are designed specifically to prepare students for these regional job interviews, by providing an environment that closely resembles real-world job interviews. This helps to boost students' confidence and improve their chances of securing employment within the regional job market.
